Swimming is a popular activity in summer. However, it can also be dangerous. Each year around the world, about 360,000 people die from drowning. To keep these terrible accidents from happening, learning about preparing to swim is important.

Getting ready to swim is not difficult and here are some easy ways:

First, check the weather and plan carefully before you swim. Make sure you know it is going to be sunny or rainy. It's not good for you to swim when it's too cold or too hot.

Second, don't have large meals before you swim. Eating a banana is better than eating foods like hamburgers, cheese and fries.

Third, having easy practices for a few minutes before you go into the water will make your body warmer.

Last, swimming is good for your health, but taking good care of your body is more important.
