There was a house on fire. One of the three brothers just jumped out of a window; 36 found his way to a door and got out. Finally, people came to help and found the third brother dead by the wall. Why didn't anyone help the third brother? The answer was, "We thought someone else did."

Here was a short story about three people. Their names were "Everyone Should", "Someone Else", and "Nobody Did". They had to finish his job. "Everyone Should" thought that "Someone Else" would do it, but "Nobody Did" did it. 37. Isn't it funny? If we leave the classroom without turning off the lights, we'll say, "I'm sorry, but I thought someone else would do it." 38, nobody did. So, we should do things on our own without depending on the help from anyone, someone, or everyone.

Who was the first person to have the idea of the rear-view mirror? Dorothy Elizabeth was. She was the first woman driver in the car race. When the cars came out in the early 1900s, only a few men could drive. Women had 39 chances of practicing driving. Even driving teachers were not willing to teach women to drive. However, at that time Dorothy Elizabeth learned about driving and joined car races. She tried very hard and wanted to show one thing to the world—women could drive as well as men could. In 1905, Dorothy Elizabeth set the record for the longest drive from London to Liverpool and became 40 woman racing driver in the world. It was not easy for her because the car racing drivers also had to know the ways to fix the race cars. Besides, Dorothy also taught Queen Alexandra and Royal Princesses how to drive. In 1909, she wrote a book, The Woman

When it comes to 3D printing, most people think of printing small things. But now, 3D printers are doing more than that. In the USA, 3D printing is taking home building to a new height. That's because engineers are building the first two-story house with a giant 3D printer. Maybe you can find many 3D-printed houses around the world. However, there have been no two-story houses so far.

3D printers build things by putting down many layers of materials. The way to build a house is almost the same, but it uses concrete. The engineers began to build the two-story house in July 2022. It will take 330 hours to finish printing the house. And the 3D printer will do most of the hard work of building it. Besides, the engineers want to use the house as "a big lab" to learn more about 3D-printing houses. They hope 3D printers can help build the house more cheaply and quickly one day.

For now, the engineers are taking their time to get the 3D-printed house right. If this two-story house is successfully built, we'll surely see a lot more 3D-printed houses in the near future.

Francesco Cirillo developed the Pomodoro Technique. It got the name from the Pomodoro timer, and people used it in the kitchen then. Cirillo found himself more focused with the help of the timer by chance, and now the Pomodoro Technique is widely used in the world. It helps people better manage their time to get things done. There are 6 steps in the Pomodoro Technique:

1. List the things you have to finish.
2. Set your timer for 25 minutes.
3. Start working.
4. When the timer rings, whether you have finished or not, stop and leave a mark on your list.
5. Take a short break for 5-10 minutes.
6. After 4 Pomodoro timers, take a longer break for about 15-30 minutes.

If you find that you can keep working for more than 25 minutes, you are free to set for a longer time. The key is to stay fully focused when you work. Also, make sure you don't do anything about your work when taking a break. Things like taking a walk or having a cup of tea are all good ideas. Just remember, when using the Pomodoro Technique, "stay focused" both when you work and when you rest.

三、言談理解：每題均有三個選項，請依據所聽到的對話與問題，選出一個最適當的答案

11.

M: Oh my! I'm late for work. Could you call a taxi for me?

W: Why don't you ride a scooter? It's faster.

M: Good idea. But there is something wrong with my scooter.

W: Then I can drive you to work.

M: Thank you.

Q: How will the man go to work?

12.

M: Where were you yesterday evening?

W: I was busy at the hospital. What's wrong?

M: Well, let me ask you this, "What date was yesterday?"

W: March 15... Why?

M: Did you forget something?

W: Oh, no. I didn't go to our daughter's ball game.

M: Yeah. That was her team's most important game this season, and she was the most valuable player of the game.

W: Please tell me you recorded the game.

M: Of course I did. The file is already on your computer.

W: Thank you. Was she sad or angry?

M: Our daughter is a kind and sweet girl. Your job is to save people's lives. She knew that well.

Q: What might the woman do next?

13.

W: Why are you washing the clothes by hand?

M: The washing machine doesn't work.

W: How come? I just used it this morning.

M: I don't know. I put the clothes in it and closed the door, but it just didn't work.

There was even no water coming into it.

W: Wait. Did you push the start button?

M: Where is it? I didn't see it.

Q: Why can't the man use the washing machine?

14.

M: Could you give me a call?

W: What for? You're already here.

M: I can't find my smartphone, but it must be in the apartment.

W: Could it be in the desk drawer?

M: It isn't there. I also checked the fridge.

W: I see.

[Phone ringing...]

M: Ha! There it is. When I put the jacket in the clothes basket, I forgot to check its pockets.

Q: What happened to the man's smartphone?

15.

M: Oh, no. My shoes. I can't wear them anymore.

W: Aren't they your most valuable ones? What happened?

M: It was rainy yesterday, and I wanted to clean the dirty shoes.

W: How did you clean them?

M: I washed my shoes in the washing machine.

W: Well, never use a washing machine to wash your shoes. What's worse, our washing machine is very old. It might be broken because of that.

Q: Why CAN'T the man wear the shoes anymore?
