Allen: Good evening, Dr. Wu. I'm glad to invite you to talk about summer slide. In the very beginning, could you explain what it is? I don't think most parents know it well.

Dr. Wu: Well. Thank you for inviting me here. It is what happens when children don't practice their reading skills over the course of the summer break. That is the skills students learn during the school year will be lost or forgotten over the summer.

Allen: So, it's common that many students do worse on tests at the end of the summer vacation than they do on the same tests at the beginning of the summer vacation. Does it mean students become stupid over the summer?

Dr. Wu: Of course not! That many students spend less time reading or learning is the main reason. Sadly, although those students try to catch up after school starts, they fall further behind the students who don't have learning losses.

Allen: I've read some studies. They show kids with more accesses to books over the summer perform better than those without accesses to books.

Dr. Wu: Yes. You're right. Very often, students from poor families have fewer books or no books at home. Year after year, the chances for the students who have no accesses to books to catch up with the other students are quite slim.

Allen: Now, I think the parents who listen to our program will have a clear picture of summer slide. Thank you, Dr. Wu.
