Ancient Romans worked hard. They of course became dirty, but they only washed their arms and legs when they got dirtier and dirtier. Then, on the ninth day, they would finally wash their bodies well. They cleaned their bodies with cold water, and some of them even did that by swimming in the river.

At the end of the 3rd century BC, the idea of taking a bath in hot baths every day came from Greece. It quickly grew popular with the Romans, and they began making bathrooms in their houses. The first public bathhouses came in the 2nd century BC, and in 33 BC, Rome had 170 small baths. By the early 5th century, there were more than 800 public baths in the city.

These bathhouses weren't just large bathrooms. Some were as big and busy as today's shopping centers. They had restaurants, gyms, reading rooms, and more. Men and women went there to meet friends, enjoy meals, and even have someone cut their hair. Although they had to pay to go into the bathhouses, the bathhouses became a very important part of their daily lives.

You are on a plane and ready to take your first bite of airline food, but it doesn't taste as good as it does on land. There are some factors that affect the way food and drinks on airplanes taste.

We can tell flavors through our senses of smell and taste. Sadly, those two senses become weaker when we fly 30,000 feet above the Earth. The air is dry, and the humidity level in the air is only 12%, and the air pressure is really low. Because of that, our noses don't work so well. When our noses don't work well, our sense of taste doesn't, either. That is because 80% of our sense of taste comes from our sense of smell. As a result, salty and sweet flavors go down by about 30%. On top of that, the loud noise from the plane makes the problem even worse. Luckily, we can still taste other flavors, such as bitter, sour, and spicy flavor.

The airlines know about all this, and they try their best to give you the most delicious food. So, the next time you are on a plane and taste something bland, the problem may not just be with the cooks.

✎ airline 航空公司	flavor 味道
humidity level 濕度	air pressure 氣壓
