As humans, we need to sleep around six to eight hours per night to stay healthy and happy. But for animals, the amount of sleep they need can be really different. And in the cases of some creatures, it seems that sleep is hardly needed at all.

Walruses, which may seem to be sleeping a lot, are actually able to stay up for a very long time. According to studies, they can stay awake for up to eighty-four hours without sleeping for a single minute. That's three-and-a-half days! Most of that time, they're not just lying around. They are swimming through the ocean, looking for their next meal.

Another good example is the horse. Horses need only two to three hours of sleep every day. Most of the time, they stand up when they sleep lightly for a short time. For deep sleep, they need to lie down, but they won't do it for long because lying down may make them attacked by predators. Like humans, they prefer to sleep at night. Unlike humans, however, horses sleep for short periods of ten to twenty minutes at a time throughout the dark hours.

As you can see, the differences of sleeping habits among animals show how they use different ways to survive in the natural environment.

(B) They spend most of their time lying around and waiting for their food.
(C) They don't need to sleep at all. They stay awake all the time.
(D) When they aren't sleeping, they swim to look for their food.
44. According to the reading, which is true about the horses?
(A) Like humans, they like to work at night.
(B) Both humans and horses need to sleep six to eight hours a day to stay healthy.
(C) If they lie down for a long time, they will be in danger of losing their lives.
(D) They never lie down to sleep because it's dangerous for them to do so.

A man was cutting wood by the side of a river when he dropped his axe into the water by chance. He couldn't retrieve it, so he sat down and started to cry. The god Hermes appeared and asked what was the matter. Feeling sorry for the man, he dived into the water and brought up a gold axe. "Was this what you had lost?", Hermes asked. When the man said it was not his, the god dived again and brought up a silver one. Once again, the man said it was not his. Hermes dived a third time and came up with an old axe that the woodcutter identified as his own. Hermes was so pleased that he let him keep all the three.

When the woodcutter told his friends, one of them thought he would try to trick the god. He threw his old axe into the river on purpose and sat down, pretending to cry. Hermes reappeared, and after hearing the man's story, dived into the water and came up with a gold axe. The man identified it as his right away. The god was so angry that he dropped the gold axe back in the river and refused to retrieve the man's own axe.

 He did that because _____.
 (A) the first woodcutter was honest
 (B) the first woodcutter needed new axes
 (C) he wanted the first woodcutter to stop crying
 (D) Hermes didn't need the axes anymore
47. Which is true?
 (A) Both the woodcutters got three axes.
 (B) Both the woodcutters threw the axes into the water on purpose.
 (C) Hermes was unhappy about the second woodcutter because he lied.
 (D) The woodcutter lived by the river and had no friends to talk to.
48. How many axes did the second woodcutter get at last?
 (A) None(完全沒有). (B) One.
 (C) Two. (D) Three.

5. How did you meet Judy last night?

三、言談理解：每題均有三個選項，請依據所聽到的對話與問題，選出一個最適當的答案

6. Man: Hi, Lisa. Long time no see. I heard that you bought a new car last month.

Woman: Yes, it is a gift for my son. He is coming of age next week.

Man: My, how time flies! It seems it was just yesterday that he went to elementary school.

Question: Which is true?

7. Man: Let me show you the pictures I drew. Do you like them?

Woman: Sure, they are great. However, my husband and I like something with more colors, not just black and white. Can you do some changes for us?

Man: Sure! It's a piece of cake for me.

Woman: That would be great. Call me when it's done.

Question: What will the man do next?

8. Man: Excuse me. I have something important to tell David Lin. Does he live here on the farm?

Woman: He used to live here.

Man: What do you mean?

Woman: He passed away two years ago.

Question: Which is true about David Lin?

9. Woman: I called you last night, but you didn't answer my phone. Did you get home late again?

Man: Yes, I arrived home at around ten.

Woman: That was late. Your new job is killing you.

Man: In fact, I left the office at six yesterday and went to a party with a friend after that.

Question: Which is true?

10. Woman: What's that strange thing in the yard?

Man: It's the first thing I made with the 3D printer.

Woman: I know, but what's that?

Man: To be honest, I have no idea. I planned to print out your favorite animal, a bear, but it came out like that.

Woman: Oh, well. You must have made some mistakes while you are designing the bear.

Question: Which is true?
